Cornhill Community Association aims to provide opportunities for the people of our community to live well, grow, learn and flourish. The Development Worker will generally work to fulfil that aim and will be supported by the Association's Management Committee. The Development Worker will be primarily based in Cornhill Community Education Centre and will work alongside Aberdeen City Council staff who manage the Centre.

The post would suit someone with experience in and/or a passion for community development, including initiating and supporting groups which benefit local people. The successful candidate will be someone who is self-motivated and enjoys developing new work such as groups, classes and projects.

For more information and a job description please contact the Chairperson of the Association, Ian Aitken, to whom applications should also be sent with a CV, covering letter and details of two referees.

Closing date for applications: Friday 10 January 2020.
